

Fecha actualización

INSTITUTE OF ECONOMICS

Political, Economic and Social Sciences Research Centre
(CICPES - INTA)

Forest Value - Project Ideas

Buenos Aires, ARGENTINA

November 15th

Instituto Nacional de
Tecnología Agropecuaria

Ministerio de Agroindustria
Presidencia de la Nación

About us

The Political, Economic and Social Sciences Research Centre (CICPES) is part of the National Institute of Agricultural Technology (INTA). It aims to contribute to the designing of policies and institutional strategies for the Agricultural, Agri-Food and Agroindustrial Sector, with a systemic and prospective approach, integrating the sector's growth to the national development process.

The Institute of Economics (IE) belongs to CICPES. Its objective is to develop and execute a specific research program concerning the following areas: Economic Efficiency and Productivity Analysis; Food Demand and Consumption Analysis; Environmental, Natural Resource and Ecological Economics; Forest and Agricultural Economics and GIS support on these subjects.

Forest Value - Project idea

B.1. Innovative industrial production and processing technologies, products, concepts and services focussing at circular use of forest-based products, side streams and waste within a circular bio-economy.

One of our current research focusses is set on the study of wood-based energy generation alternatives and modelling in Argentina.

We aim to widen our research introducing the study of actual public-private cooperation experiences and prospective opportunities at a global level.

Our network

- We have been working with FAO on the proposed subject.
- INTA is formally engaged in agreements with most of the core universities at national level as well as with many prestigious international institutions.
- We are seeking more partners to widen our scope and enrich our capabilities.

Contacts

- ❑ Karina Casellas – Institute of Economics, Director
casellas.karina@inta.gob.ar
- ❑ Demian Olemberg – Researcher
olemberg.demian@inta.gob.ar
- ❑ Estela Cristeche – Researcher
cristeche.estela@inta.gob.ar